Jeff Parrish is a senior legal advisor to healthcare companies and lenders that value his counsel on day-to-day legal matters, government relations, regulatory compliance, litigation, mediation and arbitration matters.

Prior to joining Waller, Jeff served for nearly 15 years as Secretary and General Counsel for a $250 million post-acute healthcare services provider. In this role, Jeff managed all aspects of the company's legal and regulatory matters, governmental affairs, litigation and self-insured, captive insurance programs. Jeff's understanding of the day-to-day operations and regulatory challenges faced by providers makes him an effective legal advisor to healthcare and financial services clients.

Jeff is a Rule 31 Listed Mediator in accordance with the rules of the Tennessee Supreme Court. In addition, he is certified as an American Health Lawyers Association Neutral and a member of the AHLA's national roster of mediators with health law and healthcare industry experience. He has participated in more than 350 mediation proceedings over the course of his legal career as a defense lawyer, underwriter's counsel, general counsel and corporate representative. Jeff understands the value of mediation as an alternative to costly and disruptive litigation, and his participatory experience is a significant asset when he serves as a mediator in cases spanning healthcare, employment law, and commercial disputes.

Results-oriented and tenacious, Jeff is a registered lobbyist who represents healthcare providers and other clients in government relations matters before members of the Tennessee state legislature, legislative committees and state agencies. His extensive legislative and administrative lobbying experience includes initial, direct and multi-year participation and leadership in the passage of high-profile legislation such as the Tennessee Civil Justice Act of 2011 which provided significant tort reform for the state of Tennessee. Jeff has long-standing personal and professional relationships with a large number of legislators, committee chairpersons, as well as executive branch staff, agency personnel, legislative staff, and fundraising professionals built over many years at the Tennessee Capitol.
