TRADE SECRETS

Trade secret protection can be a vital aspect of intellectual property protection for a client, especially when patent and/or copyright protection are either unavailable or inadequate. Able to render complex issues into manageable data, our attorneys advise clients of the appropriateness of trade secret protection, provide counsel regarding procedures and safeguards, and litigate disputes involving the theft or misappropriation of trade secrets.

Waller provides intellectual property trade secret advice to:

- Franchisors
- Healthcare companies
- Manufacturers
- Retailers/service providers
- Software owners
- Video producers
- Defense contractors

- Waller attorneys also investigate the illegal access of our clients' computer networks, using the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, and state law, to ascertain the identities of the perpetrators and seek redress.

Articles

- "What Middle Tennessee Companies Need to Know About A New Law Governing Trade Secrets" Nate Bailey and Charlie Walker in Nashville Business Journal
- "SWISSCODE Not Likely to Be Confused with SKINCODE," by Robert P. Felber, Jr., INTA Bulletin
- "Advertising Alone Does Not Constitute Use of Service Mark," by Robert P. Felber, Jr., INTA Bulletin
- "Domain Name Administrator Not Liable for Contributory Infringement," by Robert P. Felber, Jr., INTA Bulletin

Bulletins

- To Qualify for Liability Safe Harbor, Internet Service Providers Must Now Register Designated Agents Online

Industries Served

- Automotive
- Banking | Financial Services
- Franchise
- Media | Entertainment
- Healthcare
- Retail and Mixed Use

Legal Services

- Healthcare
- Intellectual Property
- Litigation & Dispute Resolution
Events

■ “Developing, Defending and Leveraging Intellectual Property,”
  Co-presented by A.J. Bahou, Southeastern Medical Device
  Association (SEMDA) 10th Annual Conference

Press Releases

■ Waller Adds Prominent Employment Attorney to Top-Ranked Tennessee Labor and Employment Practice